Organic beauty

With its simple yet intriguing design, Sia proves that sometimes less is truly more. After all, the best moments in life are often the simple ones, don't you agree? Despite its many delightful details, Sia manages to make a statement without overwhelming your space.

Thanks to its clever construction, the glass top is securely attached to the legs, ensuring stability.

“The Sia table was created through a close collaboration with LK Hjelle. The starting point was a desire for a three-legged table with elements of both glass and wood. We in the studio started looking at different compositions and joints that could create an interesting expression. With simple mock ups and sketches we arrived at a table where two curved edges come together in an exciting joint in one leg. The table has a simple and understandable expression with refined details. The structure of the table has been carefully thought out, where good solutions have emerged through a great collaboration with LK Hjelle.”
